Taiwan could be one of the best places to live if the government and citizens could make the following two things happen: 21 traffic conditions and a clean environment. 22, these two things are not east to come by. It may take generations.

Nevertheless, no one should ever just sit around and wait for things to happen because they don't just happen on their own. In fact, they will never happen unless the entire population has an awareness of its own 23. Improvements calls for the combined efforts of both the government and its citizens, and it can be obtained only through persistent law enforcement and citizen education. I'd really like to see Taiwan 24 its disorderly traffic conditions and dirty environment. 25 proudly say that Taiwan is, indeed, one of the best countries in the world. (from Easy, 2005)
